

Sacramento Book Review

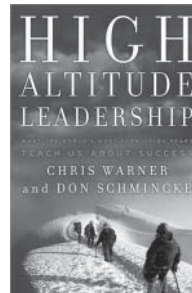

Below is a clipping of your book review that appeared in the January 09 issue of the Sacramento Book Review. Thank you for sending us the book.

High Altitude Leadership

*By Chris Warner and Don Schmincke
Jossey-Bass, $27.95, 240 pages*

Leadership is a risky and very lonely career position held by a select few of us. But even a smaller percentage of those leaders break ahead of the pack, defying certain ideas and breaking barriers to be successful and rich. These are what Chris Warner and Don Schmincke call High Altitude Leaders—bosses who take their businesses to the top height of the corporate ladder. The authors introduce a new approach at leadership, based off of new scientific research, tested on some of the highest summits, and used to make success out of any would-be leader.

This book will teach you how to lead under the most extreme conditions, train you to use all of your strength, and to break through your own barriers to become a great leader and business man. You will learn to avoid things like selfishness and fear and will be taught amazing lessons that will last you for life.

Reviewed by James Rojek